<tr>
<td>Patriarchy. Operates from a patriarchal life and ministry philosophy patterned after Dr. Bill Gothard, Dr. Jack Hyles, and Paul Chappell. Speaks regularly for the patriarchal-oriented Institute in Basic Life Principles (IBLP) and for Paul Chappell.</td>
<td>Patriarchy. Opposes all forms of patriarchy as extra-biblical legalism that is destructive to the local churches that practice it. Patriarchal teachings and practices potentially foster abuse of women and children who find themselves under it.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child Abuse. His legal work often helps cover for alleged and/or eventually convicted abusers, or the churches or ministries they work for.</td>
<td>Child Abuse. Opposes child abuse in all forms; stands up for victims. Believes churches and other organizations that do not vigorously screen their children's workers, maintain child protection policies, and report any suspicion of child abuse to the authorities are acting irresponsibly.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Organization. Founder and President of Christian Law Association, begun in 1977 (not 1969 as advertised). Promoted by Pastor Jack Hyles (First Baptist Church of Hammond, IN) and Dr. Don Howard (Accelerated Christian Education), both of whom had moral questions raised about them. Dr. Paul Chappell – a protégé of Pastor Hyles – is on CLA’s Oversight Board, which does not meet or receive audited financials.</td>
<td>Non-Profit Legal Ministry. President, National Center for Life and Liberty, with centers addressing liberty issues of homeschool, church, life defense, Christian education, American policy, and international liberty.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Legal Practice &amp; Ministry. Moved to Ohio recently where he plans to retire, and is a non-litigating attorney, plus has a ministry as a King-James-Only traveling evangelist.</td>
<td>Legal Practice. Graduate of Duke Law School. Manages the Gibbs Law Firm with offices in Dallas, Texas; St. Petersburg, Florida; and Washington, D.C. Admitted to practice law in eight states, the District of Columbia, US Supreme Court, and other federal district and appeals courts.</td>
<tr>
<td>Clientele. Works exclusively for Independent Fundamental Baptist (IFB) churches, and clients with patriarchal authoritarian practices such as the following. Dr. Bill Gothard and the IBLP board with recent issues of sexual assault and harassment. First Baptist Church of Hammond, Indiana, in the criminal trial of their pastor, Jack Schaap. Pastors Mark Chappell and Bill Wininger, and Dr. Don Howard (deceased), all accused of molesting young girls.</td>
<td>Clientele. Lead attorney in the Terri Schiavo case, representing the parents as they fought to save the life of their daughter. Lead attorney in the lawsuit of Lourdes Torres-Manteufel versus Douglas Phillips, Vision Forum, Inc., and Vision Forum Ministries.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Media &amp; Publications. Co-authored One Nation Under God.</td>
<td>Media &amp; Publications. Hosts the weekly radio program Law Talk Live on the Moody Radio Network. Has authored or co-authored five books including Fighting for Dear Life: The Untold Story of Terri Schiavo and What It Means For All of Us, Understanding the Constitution, and Making Sense of Religion in America’s Public Schools.</td>

Which “Attorney David Gibbs” Leads the Lawsuit of Lourdes Torres-Manteufel vs Douglas Phillips – the Father, or the Son?

There are two Christian lawyers named David C. Gibbs - Jr. is the father and III is the son. This post seeks to halt the ongoing confusion about which Gibbs serves as lead attorney for Lourdes Torres-Manteufel in her civil suit against Doug Phillips and Vision Forum.

I recently contacted David C. Gibbs, III. He is the lead attorney for Lourdes Torres-Manteufel in her civil suit against Doug Phillips plus his Vision Forum, Inc., business and his Vision Forum Ministries non-profit. I’d come up against a recurring issue on my own blog with commenters, and on other websites, about exactly which Attorney Gibbs people were talking about – Gibbs III or his father, Gibbs, Jr. I’d also gotten a number of emails and blog post comments that didn’t distinguish between the two.

- Which one was consultant to the board of Bill Gothard’s Institute in Basic Life Principles?
- Which one was involved in the notorious criminal trial of now-convicted pastor Jack Schaap?

Spiritual abuse survivors were outraged that Lourdes Torres-Manteufel might be placing the future of her lawsuit in the hands of someone with a notorious reputation for covering up abuse of power!

But it just didn’t seem to make sense that someone involved in those kinds of cases would take up the case against a patriarchy movement leader like Doug Phillips! So I pursued some leads from Spiritual Sounding Board commenters and others to figure things out. The confusion is understandable, really. Both are lawyers, and Gibbs III did work for/with Gibbs, Jr., at his father’s Christian Law Association (CLA) organization for a period of time. But, given the horrific abusive perpetrated in the above situations, which Gibbs was involved would make a huge difference.

The following chart was pieced together from material provided by Attorney David C. Gibbs, III, via email and from his National Center for Life and Liberty (NCLL) website. The few short statements after that were lightly edited from quotes he provided. Attorney Gibbs III then reviewed and approved them before I posted them here at Spiritual Sounding Board.

About His Father’s Philosophy

It turns out that the son is not very much like his father. The professional paths of the two Gibbs attorneys diverged when the son could not endorse his father’s old-school theology with its patriarchal philosophy.

Embarrassingly to David, his father has stood with many child abusers in the Independent Fundamental Baptist (IFB) world over the years rather than publicly renouncing their sin. David’s father is of that old-school philosophy that tends to cover-up and hide as opposed to being transparent, open, and honest. That is why David’s father meets with Bill Gothard’s board as they try to cover-up and ignore Dr. Gothard’s immoral activities. In stark contrast, David Gibbs III is suing Doug Phillips on behalf of the woman he victimized, Lourdes Torres-Manteufel.

Attorney Gibbs III disagrees with many of the positions, decisions, and recommendations that his father and Christian Law Association support as they spend donated church money to protect and cover-up the moral failings of sinful leaders. Attorney Gibbs III supports and promotes child protection and full ministry transparency and accountability. In David’s opinion, CLA and his father have been on the wrong side of these issues for a number of years. That is one of the many reasons why David Gibbs III cannot endorse and work alongside his aging father in ministry.

About Alleged Criminal Issues

Several blog comments had alleged that Attorney Gibbs III had been arrested in Florida on charges of spousal abuse, even linking to the Florida county arrest log to where one could supposedly find the record of the arrest.

He has NO criminal record, and he and his wife have NEVER had any domestic dispute as falsely alleged in these unsubstantiated and slanderous posts. David and his wife will celebrate twenty-one years of marriage in July 2014.

About Pushing Back Against Systems of Abuse

His website bio summarizes his philosophy well.

Attorney Gibbs believes: “If it’s wrong, fight it. If it’s right, fight for it.” His life verse is Matthew 25:40, where Jesus said, “Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me.”

Concluding Thoughts

While there was an opportunity to merely copy this material from various comments online, it was important for how we do things at SSB for me to contact Attorney Gibbs III directly, and wait to post this information until I’d heard from him – even while this contains much of the exact same information. I believe we need to separate the fused identities of father and son, move past any temporary association the son had with his father’s patriarchy-supporting CLA, and embrace this man whose philosophy on abuse puts Lourdes Torres-Manteufel in good stead.

Please keep praying for Lourdes and her husband Nolan, for Attorney Gibbs III’s leadership in the progress of the lawsuit, and for the ultimate uncloaking of Vision Forum and patriarchy as a “total institution” with “bounded choice,” as Cindy Kunschman’s guest post series has been exploring in detail. This case is strategic to shining the light of truth on this dark and abusive movement.
